Abundance for all

Our aim is to provide you with skills in nature education, woodcrafts, wildlife conservation, wood and wildlife management and much more!

This is an opportunity to increase confidence, build self-esteem and develop a sense of belonging in nature.

Through teamwork, knowledge and skill sharing you'll learn about managing the woodland environment, ecology, conservation, safe working practice and wellbeing.

We offer two projects 1. volunteer placements and 2. The Scottish Forest outdoor learning Award level 4

Getting Involved

The process

self or external referral to join project(s)

An assessment meeting will be arranged to understand your individual needs and goals

You'll then be matched with the most suitable project and given a start date

If for some reason you're unable to access our project we'll work with you to find other, appropriate services on offer across Fife

Support within the project, including personal development plan, co-design of sessions and activities to meet the needs of the individual and wider group

Moving on: guidance and support for those seeking employment or training in collaboration with Fife employability services

A jointly funded project with Fife Council Opportunities Fife partnership at the Ecology Centre.

We will encourage improved skills in education, conservation and woodland management and more! An increased confidence and building self-esteem in a nature setting.

We have a variety of job roles to meet needs and skills. Access for all.

We accept agency or self-referrals for age 16+. Courses are 8 week blocks, each session 2-3 hours per week, groups of 5-8 depending on individual circumstances.

The pathway includes assessment and person centred planning, outcomes, positive destinations for all and reflective learning. Leading to work experience and volunteering within the Ecology Centre and beyond.
